An Eleven Year Old's Ideas On America And Its Energy

Here in America we have plenty of fuel, but the fuel we use is going away and America is against nuclear energy, and solar takes too much money. And without energy how will America survive?

It is very important that we find another energy source or use something we already have. But the real problem is a lot of people are sitting around in a chair like a pumpkin on a log.

A tiny bit of nuclear energy won't just last a period of time, you can use it as long as you want. On Halloween people use electricity to let the children know they have candy.

Solar energy is something that coundn't harm a robin themselves. The capital of the United States could be run by solar energy. Geography students can use solar energy.

Someone should lead the people in the direction of nuclear and solar energy. They may issue invitations for the day of nuclear and solar excitement. Schoolhouses can be run by the new types of energy.

Hopefully, we will be beginning operations with new energies soon.
